

You can down-load pictures like this...

Mouth' or 'Its Getting Better, Man'. Um...blinked and missed that one then Mr P. Floyd (is that a joke too?). Oh, Definitely Maybe is spelt 'Definately' here, and we're also informed that there's no gossip or news as he doesn't have time to keep up on Oasis news. Maybe you'd rather check out his Marilyn Manson or Pantera pages. No, thought not. Alternatively, send hate mail to pfloyd@cris.com

Likewise, avoid 'Oh Aye Sis'. (www.learn.senccac.on.ca) There's not much happening and the title sounds like a tribute band name.

Onwards and upwards, Oasis: Beyond News (www.mindspring.com/~dougieg/oasis.htm) is an adequate site. Nothing exciting, but it does contain accurate sounding news on the forthcoming album, an Oasisgear link on the band's musical equipment, and a snippet of Noel's Beck remix. Dougie recommends a couple of other fan pages, 'Niall's Oasis Abode', 'Be Here Now', and 'The Masterplan', (of which more later...)

'What's The Story' (www:staff.dircon.net/michael/oasis/index.html) is Ok, but hasn't been updated for ages (June 1996, to be exact). You'll find FAQ - 'frequently asked questions' for the uninitiated - news, pictures, guitar tabs, a discography and some bits & bobs including Noel and Bonehead's on-line interview, and a sound recording of two Liam interviews. Nothing, in short, that the official site doesn't do better.

exchange of info between fans and 'making friends'. It's up to date, but a technical problem with the page means it looks a bit confusing at the moment. But Lasagne! will be back soon to see what's been happening there, and you'd be advised to as well.

Top page we found, before we made ourselves totally skint, was 'The Oasis Masterplan' (www.iol.ie/~kglemon). This just has everything. It's well laid out, intelligently written, and accurate to boot. You have (deep breath), news, tour dates, tour reviews, guitars, bootlegs, sounds including 'My Big Mouth', pictures, articles, and links to other sites. You could spend hours roaming through each one as well. There are 28 news articles and interviews, for example, and here Lasagne! unearthed the classic Man City version of Wonderwall:

'Because maybe, we should have got Richard Madeley/ but after all, we got Alan Ball'

'The Masterplan', we salute you!!

And there you have it! If you've never surfed the net, it's time you took the plunge. If you don't have the facilities at home, college or work (when no-one's looking), why not spend an hour or two at one of these cybercafes?! You'll find many a hidden gem. You'll learn, you'll laugh, and you'll cry (when you see your phone bill!) If anyone has visited or runs Oasis fan pages, let Lasagne! know. We'll try to keep you abreast of developments. Access the official site at:

www.oasisinet.com and go from there. Lasagne!..... to infinity & beyond! (Ahem).
